

The Canadian Council of Professional Certification was established by Federal Charter in 1975.

The CCPC is the only body in Canada to certify registrants in multiple professional disciplines and has the authority to create certification programs.

The CCPC also accredits courses or curriculum taught at career related educational institutions.

As a certifying and accrediting body, the CCPC is recognized for setting and maintaining high standards, professionalism and quality assurance.

Accredited courses are listed on our website.

The CCPC has provided certification to a wide range of industries for over 45 years. We bring our experience and professionalism to every certification we issue. It is recognized as the symbol of authority for advancing careers.
